

HOUSE SUPPORTS PRESIDENT IN FIRST TEST VOTE

WILL TABLE M'LEMORE'S RESOLUTION

VOTE ON RULE STANDS 256 TO 160 IN FAVOR OF THE ADMINISTRATION'S POSITION.

BAR ALL AMENDMENTS

Debate Begun on Armed Ship Resolution Itself With Probability of Killing It—Republicans Want Amendments.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, March 7.—In the first test vote in the house today on the armed ship question the administration forces won 256 to 160.

Reach Vote at Six

About six o'clock this evening, the administration forces will move to table the McLeMORE resolution and the heavy vote they expect to carry by a substantial majority.

Once tabled, the resolution will have gone the way of the Gore resolution, which was defeated in the house by a vote of 150 to 250. The resolution itself, routing the opposition by a vote of 256 to 160 and 271 to 135 respectively.

Immediately after the adoption of the rule, debate began on the resolution itself. Chairman Flood of the foreign affairs committee, moving to table it.

Opportunity for amending the McLeMORE resolution to warn Americans on the armed ships of European belligerents was removed and the house turned to debate on the resolution itself with every indication that it would be tabled as President Wilson desired, as a demonstration to foreign powers that the administration's foreign policy does not represent the majority of congress.

Take Vote on Rule.

The question to adopt the special rule, was then put. Representative Campbell demanded the yeas and nays and at 6 o'clock the roll call was taken on the adoption of the rule to consider the warning resolution.

"If you want to stand with the president and his advisers, you will vote to sustain the rule and table the McLeMORE resolution," said he.

"The thought further from President Wilson's mind is a desire for a resolution which would strip the president of his power to declare war," said he.

Representative Cantrell, democrat, Kentucky, member of the rules committee, said he would support the rule because only by its adoption could the house put itself on record on the warning resolution issue.

"The president, President Wilson is the chief executive of the nation," he declared amid democratic applause.

Representative Leavelle of Wisconsin, republican, of the rules committee, declared:

"This house will either defeat this rule, leaving the matter where it is now, in the president's hands, or will pass the resolution which will permit the president to declare war."

"I shall vote to table the McLeMORE resolution in defense of that flag," declared Representative Perry, republican, of Pennsylvania, pointing to the American flag behind the speaker's chair. "To vote for the resolution would be to put a yellow-streak in that flag."

Washington, March 7.—The administration's fight to kill congressional agitation for warning to American citizens against traveling on armed merchantships, reached the decisive stage today in the house.

"In the prospect that a vote would be reached late today on a motion to table and thus defeat the McLeMORE warning resolution, the house was ready for a day of lively debate. Those in charge of the resolution, and those in charge of the negotiations with Germany, were confident that when the vote was finally taken, they would have a decisive majority."

Republican Defends Wilson.

Discussing the armed ship issue in the senate today, Senator Sutherland of Utah, a republican member of the foreign relations committee, stood squarely behind President Wilson in his policy in dealing with Germany in the submarine negotiations.

"I do not want war at any time," said Senator Sutherland, "and I pray God that it may not come now, but I would rather have war with all its sacrifices and sufferings, than that this nation, with its long history of freedom and glory, should play the part of a patsy when confronted by a supreme national duty, because it places a greater value upon its ease than upon its honor."

"I am one of those who desire peace," the senator continued, "but a nation, when all other means fail, that will not respect its own citizens, is only less detestable than a man who will not fight for his wife and children, and believing as I do about that if the life of an American citizen is again taken by the illegal and deliberate sinking without warning of a merchant ship, unarmed or armed only for defense, that this government should hold the enemy to a stern reckoning, I shall never give my consent to the issuance of a formal and official notice, such as has been proposed, which, if not heeded, would, without minimizing our duty, in the least, have the effect of embarrassing and weakening our moral standing. If we should once more be under the sad necessity of seeking reparation for the destruction of the lives of our people."

Discussed Law Points.

Senator Sutherland discussed the legal status of armed ships and international law, and the relation thereof to the newly developed submarine. The proposition now insisted upon, he stated, he declared, "is simply this, that when a new and exciting situation is created, that cannot be made entirely effective without violating the law, the law is just as much a part of the situation as the facts themselves. Under such circumstances, my own view of the matter is that the new weapon must yield to the law, and not that the law must yield to the new weapon."

He then stated that they no longer apply to ships armed for defense alone, we must be prepared to face a probable condition much more serious than that involved in destruction of an armed vessel. He declared that the right of a submarine to sink a vessel so armed without giving warning, an opportunity for crew and passengers to escape in safety, will be to invite the destruction of our ships without warning, as well, since it is well impossible for the officers of submarines to determine in advance whether a given vessel is armed or not.

"If, therefore, the commander of a submarine claims to act upon appearances, we shall never be able to determine whether these appearances justify his conclusion, until after the vessel and her crew and passengers have gone to the bottom of the sea, and in some cases not even then. The result will be that the vessel, while possessing immunity in theory, will have not in fact."

Upholds Neutral Rights.

"The question, next arises, and indeed it is the crucial question, shall our citizens be officially advised to forbear from traveling on belligerent merchant vessels armed for defense only? Or, if not, shall we go further and forbid them to travel under penalty for disobedience? If I am correct in what I have already said, namely, that these merchantships have the same status as neutral ships, it follows that such a ship has the same status as though unarmed, and that the right of a neutral citizen to transport his goods or travel upon such a ship is the same as the right and that in fact is the decision of our own supreme court in a great case decided many years ago and never since overruled or modified."

"If, therefore, a passenger upon a ship so armed and loses his life by sinking of the ship without warning, what must be the contention and claim of this government?"

ORPET WILL MAKE NOT GUILTY PLEA

University Student Will be Arraigned to Answer Murder Charge Wednesday Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Wauchuan, Wis., March 7.—Will E. Orpet, the University of Wisconsin student, under indictment for murder of Marion Lambert, 18, will be arraigned and enter a plea of not guilty before Judge Edwards in the local court circuit court tomorrow morning.

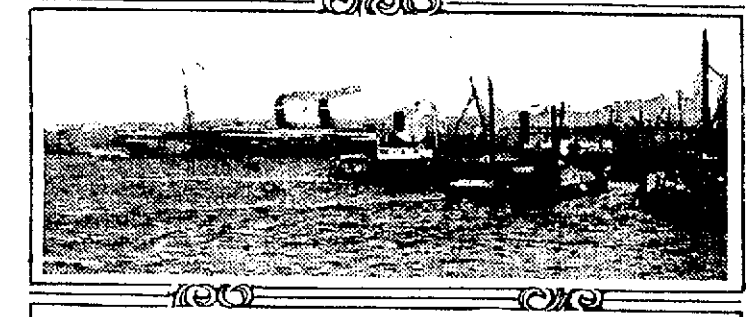

State's Attorney Dady will ask to have the case set for trial next Monday. Counsel for Orpet will urge that the trial go over to the October term of court.

GETS A LIFE TERM IN CANADIAN COURT

Charles Resta Found Guilty of Dynamiting Buildings—Convicted of Three Charges.

Windsor, Ontario, March 7.—Charles Resta was convicted of dynamiting Canadian buildings by a jury at Sandwich, Ontario, today. The jury was out fifteen minutes. Resta was sentenced to life imprisonment. He was convicted on three charges.

UNCLE SAM'S WAR MUNITIONS TRADE HAS REACHED CREST. SAY COMMERCE EXPERTS

Keys of horsehoes ready for shipment to allies (top); activity along New York's water front; barreled beef in New York ready for shipment.

That the United States is now on the crest of the big business of supplying munitions of war to the allies, is the belief of experts in the U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at Washington. This trade exceeded $200,000,000 in 1915; but the allied powers do not intend to spend that much here this year, as their own munitions factories are growing.

DID LA FOLLETTE USE DOUBLE CROSS METHOD ON OWEN

Friends of Attorney General Believed His Speech at Progressive Banquet Eliminates Him From Judgeship Race.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., March 7.—The echoes of the La Follette convention have nearly died away, but one remains, and that has stirred up much trouble in the radical ranks than any other thing which marks the recent political history of Wisconsin.

It is brother against brother now, and all because Justice Timlin has decided not to be a candidate for reelection to the supreme bench.

As has been said, friends of Attorney General Owen urged him not to become too prominently identified with the so-called conference. They argued that he had everything to lose and nothing to gain. But Mr. Owen laughed at these friends—and they were real friends—and consented to be one of the speakers at the banquet.

It was common political gossip that the day after the banquet he had done himself no good by his rabid speech directed against Governor Philipp, and especially his attack upon the governor for his appointment of Justice Rosenberry. Now comes the sequel.

Hardly had Mr. Owen returned to his office, and while he still was hearing from that speech, Justice Timlin announced his retirement. That means an election. Mr. Owen was known to be a candidate before that speech, in the event that Justice Timlin retired.

The attack upon Governor Philipp, however, hurt his campaign. It was the support of many conservative voters of both parties as he did, he gained no votes among the radicals, and now Justice Timlin has retired one of the very men who sat at the speaker's table with him and applauded his speech, Walter D. Corrigan of Milwaukee, has appeared as a candidate for the place.

Friends of the attorney general are not backward in charging a frame-up. They declare that it was known to others that Justice Timlin was to retire, and that they arranged for him to put their chestnuts out of the fire, and then spring the trap. For which it was announced that Herman L. Ekern was to make a speech on insurance at the banquet. When the time came, however, Mr. Ekern evidently had agreed to allow Mr. Owen to make the expose of the terrible conditions in the state in that line, and to show what the radicals had not done in the last ten years to curb the insurance companies.

Meanwhile, complacently munched salted wafers and when he was called upon made a speech upon unpreparedness. Mr. Corrigan made a speech, but it was left for Mr. Owen to fire the heavy guns. His speech was the one which was typewritten and given to the press.

The radicals complained bitterly that the judiciary was being dragged into politics. They declared that the people see it in that light they have only themselves to blame. Many amusing incidents are being reported in the campaign for the election of delegates to the republican national convention. The difficulty of riding two horses is being demonstrated daily. For instance Emil Steiger, La Follette candidate in the sixth district, last week made an advertisement which he placed in his home paper announcing to his employees that he could not pay higher wages as long as the present free trade policy of the Wilson administration prevailed. In another column he announced that he was a candidate for delegate to support a man who voted for the democratic party.

SAYS ALLIES DO NOT AS TO EXPORTS

NEW YORK PRODUCE EXCHANGE MEMBER REVEALS STARTLING TRADE PROPOSITION.

CAN'T CURB SITUATION

French and British Have Finger on Practically Everything Afloat Except Few Scandinavian Vessels.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, March 7.—Great Britain and France were described today as virtually dictators as to what kind of commodities shall be exported through the port of New York in a statement to the interstate commerce commission by J. C. Austin of the New York Produce Exchange.

Mr. Austin was the first witness today at the informal conference between shippers and carriers to discuss the problem of congested freight terminals at eastern seaports.

Allies Are Dictators.

"It is well known," said Mr. Austin, "that the British government dictates what we shall ship and what she shall not ship. A ship which loads without permission of the British government is immediately requisitioned. The same condition applies now to French lines. The allies have the finger on nearly everything afloat."

Mr. Austin declared that the dictatorial power of the two belligerent governments extends to the control of their own ships and not to those of Holland, Denmark and other neutral nations.

"It is a situation you cannot control and it is no argument about it," Mr. Austin said.

Flour Supply Congested

About 500,000 barrels of flour are now on hand at New York and about 60 per cent of it is for export. Mr. Austin said, flour for New York was strung along from Minneapolis to New York in train loads, in carloads and in other ways, he asserted.

Herbert Shideman of the Baltimore chamber of commerce said the situation in eastern seaports should be the subject of a "wrecking crew," composed of active railroad men and shipowners. He said the committee thought could clean up the situation in sixty days.

Seek to Bring Bond Salesman Into Wisconsin From Chicago For Alleged Offense.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, March 7.—Application was today made to the governor for a requisition for J. J. Corliss now in Chicago. He is charged with making fraudulent representations in sale of bonds of La Crosse Water Power Company.

MINISTER BLAMES SALOON MEN FOR ALLEGATIONS OF GIRL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Oroville, Cal., March 7.—The Rev. Madison Slaughter, Baptist pastor of Chico, was slated for trial here today on the first of five indictments charging him with the rape of a 15-year-old Gertrude Lamson daughter of a member of his congregation.

Slaughter insists he is the victim of trumped up charges on the part of persons who here and there have sought, he says, to "get him." On the other hand, the girl claims her charges are true, though her parents publicly announced that she did not credit her story and stood firmly by the minister. The girl says the alleged conduct occurred on Slaughter's ranch and that after he and his family threatened trouble for her, she was exposed to all kinds of vile and filthy remarks.

SO BRITON CANNOT GET THE TRADE OF GERMANS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Feb. 7.—It is absurd to talk about capturing German trade and meeting foreign competition after the war when so much harm is now done by the stoppage of all business. Education is being raised because it is so easy to do it," he said, "but those who are doing it have no vision for the future welfare of the empire, which must rest first on national efficiency. A sound elementary education is the base on which all forms of higher education must be built, especially those of a more practical character than are now supplied."

Nomination of Baker To Senate

Washington, March 7.—The nomination of Newton D. Baker, former mayor of Cleveland, to be secretary of war, was sent to the senate today.

GIRL, AGED EIGHT, DIES; PHYSICIANS PUZZLED BY CASE

Mysterious and Almost Sudden Death of Little Mabel Belle Osgood Baffles Doctors.

Attending physicians during the illness of Mabel Belle Osgood, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Osgood of 416 Caroline street, who died at the family home this morning, all puzzled by the death of the girl. She had been ill since Saturday and previous to that had been apparently well and healthy, having attended school on Friday. Sunday morning another physician called in consultation, but failed to diagnose the case to any greater extent than the first.

Frank Ryan, coroner, embalmed the body after the mother refused permission to the doctors to perform an autopsy. It was not deemed necessary to examine the body to determine the cause of death, although the facts were really not clear to the physicians.

A week from tomorrow the little girl would have celebrated her eighth birthday.

The funeral will be held at two o'clock Thursday afternoon from the home. The body will be laid to rest in Oak Hill cemetery.

STEAMSHIP SERVICE HELD UP BY STRIKE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Belfast, via London, March 7.—Steamship service between this port and Fleetwood and Liverpool, Ireland, were suspended last night, owing to a strike by the crews of the steamers for increased wages. The stoppage aggravates the already congested condition in Belfast port.

MORE CANADIAN GRAIN TIED UP IN WAREHOUSES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Winnipeg, Man., March 7.—Two and a half times as much grain is stored in western Canada elevators today as was tied up one year ago. Resulting congestion is blamed for the delay in releasing the grain for export. The move would revolutionize cash prices, it is admitted.

Estimates today showed 53,685,388 bushels of grain stored in Western Canada now as compared with 25,215,801 bushels a year ago. Of this grain now on hand, 42,808,653 bushels is wheat as compared with 18,263,476 bushels a year ago.

Theodore Roosevelt's move in the states for Canadian reciprocity was considered today to have been finally defeated in the Manitoba legislature. The agitation for the abolition of tariff duties for exports into the states, J. G. Turfitt's contention being that such a move would ruin the grain prices for the farmer. Sir Theobald's resolution was definitely tabled.

GOVERNMENT HAS POOR SUCCESS IN RAISING STOCK FOR SOLDIERS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Paris, March 7.—Opposition newspapers are exposing the fact that the State is a poor stock-raiser. It is shown that there are now in the hands of the State 10,000 beef cattle and about 1,000 milch cows, and it requires 550 francs to keep a cow and 1,000 francs to keep a cow and calf. The cost is estimated at 65 cents per capita of stock per diem.

WEST COAST OF AFRICA BECOMING MODERNIZED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, March 7.—The West coast of Africa, formerly a land of romance, tragedy and mystery to be told about by explorers, is becoming rapidly modernized. A Nigerian newspaper, for instance, says that Dr. Obase, a wealthy native has at his own expense built a new road for his cocoa plantations so that now a fleet of motor-trucks will take the place of the long line of natives carrying the cocoa on their heads through a jungle trail.

CLASH IN NORTH SEA?

Twenty-Five War Vessels Now Reported Cruising Into British Blockade Zone—Germans Gain West of Verdun.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Rome, March 5 (delayed).—Twenty German dreadnaughts have left Kiel, according to information received today.

The foregoing dispatch was held up by the British censors for two days. Another dispatch filed in London at 2:25 o'clock this morning, said a fleet of twenty-five German warships was observed Monday morning in the North Sea. This message was received in London from Vileland, North Holland.

Capture Swedish Boat.

Copenhagen, March 8.—The Berlingske Tidende publishes a dispatch from Malmoe, Sweden, which says that a German torpedo boat captured the Swedish brig Ynez of Landskrona, Sweden, and placed a prize crew aboard. The Swedish torpedo boat Regulus came up hurriedly and drew attention to the fact that the capture of the Ynez was made half a mile from the Swedish coast.

The German commander thereupon made apologies and removed his crew, permitting the Ynez to proceed.

Expect Navy Estimates.

London, March 7.—Great interest in the re-opening of parliament, centers in the expected statement by Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty, in introducing the estimates for the coming year, and in the expected reply from the opposition bench by Colonel Winston Spencer Churchill, Balfour's predecessor in office. The projected moratorium will also be one of the topics. Other than personnel of the navy it is not expected that exact information will be given out.

A. J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty, stated in the house of commons this afternoon that the tonnage of the British navy had been increased by one million tons since the outbreak of the war, while the German navy had grown tenfold.

Admit German Gain.

Paris, via London, March 7.—Further progress has been made by the Germans in the Verdun region to west of the Meuse. Announcement was made here semi-officially today that they had captured a number of villages and a railway station in the neighborhood of Regneville.

The war office announced today that a division of German troops advanced to the attack has captured hill No. 265.

NINETEEN YEAR OLD YOUTH PROMOTED TO BE A MAJOR THROUGH UNUSUAL BRAVERY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, March 7.—Although barely nineteen years of age, Henry Pattinson, a Buckingham, Lincolnshire, has just been promoted to be a major in the British army. He has risen from a private in a school boy battalion.

Pattinson's father is a minor town official in Rushington. When he opened the boy was at Halesbury school, where he had a greater reputation as a football player than as a scholar, although he was regarded as too young to play on the school's first eleven. In the school's battalion his superiors reported that he "shows no special aptitude for military duty," as soon as the war broke out he offered his services.

He was rejected on his first two applications, but he persisted, and the authorities finally stretched a point, and he was accepted as a second lieutenant in September, 1914.

When he became a captain last June he was the youngest captain then on active duty in France. His regiment saw very severe fighting, and he was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal after the series of battles there. He found himself the senior surviving officer. Until a new colonel was appointed, he was in charge of his regiment, and he acquired himself so well that he was in due course rewarded by promotion to his present place as major.

NEENAH CHIEF OF POLICE HAS TRIAL ON CHARGES TODAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Neenah, Wis., March 7.—Charges against chief of police James Brown of this city were scheduled to be tried before the fire and police commission here today. The charges were filed after an investigation of the commission following the release of prisoners who had been arrested by the night officer.

Brown was suspended pending an investigation. Charges were filed by the commission because of his being unfit for the position because of failing memory and because he was unskillful in his dealings with residents of Neenah.

He is expected to fight the charges when they are heard.

BOMB KILLS OFFICER OF THE IRISH GUARD

Paris, March 7.—Major Lord Desmond Fitzgerald, first battalion Irish Guards, brother of the Duke of Leinster and his presumptive heir, was accidentally killed, says a Calais dispatch to the Matins. He was experimenting in his tent with a new kind of bomb, when it exploded, and he was struck in the head. He was taken to a hospital and died an hour later. Lord Desmond was wounded in battle at the beginning of the war and was mentioned for distinguished service. He was born in 1888 and educated at Eton.

SIGNS OF DECADENCE WARNING TO NATION

TIME THAT NATION SHOULD FIGHT ITS FAULTS BURTON HANSON TELLS ROCK COUNTY LAWYERS.

HINTS FROM FRANKLIN

Reviews Life and Service of Great Philosopher and Statesman, Revealing Many Lessons for Present Day Americans.

"There are signs that we are becoming a decadent people and if we continue in our ways of extravagance, I fear that we verge not alone upon decadence, but upon degeneracy," declared Burton Hanson, general counsel of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and North Western Railway, in his address Monday evening before the Rock County Bar Association, at their annual banquet at the Movers Hotel.

Mr. Hanson spoke on the life of Benjamin Franklin, whom he lauded as this nation's foremost philosopher, statesman and diplomat to whose courage and wisdom we owe a great debt for the firm establishment of this government. Mr. Hanson's remarks on the possible decadence of this country were occasioned by reference to Franklin's philosophy, which was the embodiment of the homely virtues of industry, thrift and moderation.

"The precepts of the Franklin almanac are as essential to living today as they were in his time," continued Mr. Hanson. "Silks and satins, as it ever was, Franklin also said, is true we are sorely taxed by our government, but we are taxed twice as much by our idiosyncrasies as much by our pride, and our extravagance. If the admonitions of Franklin were heeded the spectre of pauperism would not confront sixty-six percent of the people of this country today. Government data shows that 98 percent of the American people are living from day to day on wages, and the loss of employment means poverty and pauperism. The cause for this may be traced to our vices and our sports. The amount spent on drink, tobacco and sports each year is appalling. The annual drink bill in England before the war would have been sufficient to finance the army, navy, schools, maintenance of poor and pay the interest on the national debt.

"It is time that Americans began to fight their faults. We need to stamp out extravagance among all classes. There is no choice but to return to the simple life and a clean, decent way of living. I have gone into the leading hotels and restaurants of this land from one ocean to the other and invariably I have found skating on one side and dancing on the other, women wearing not enough clothes to ward a sun and in front of me movies. It is a sun and not only that we are becoming decadent, but that we are becoming degenerate."

Reviews Franklin's Work. Mr. Hanson reviewed the notable work of Franklin in behalf of the American colonies. His intercession before the British house of commons for his mission to France during the war of the revolution, his signing the declaration of independence, his negotiating the treaty of peace with England, and other treaties, and his hand in the constitutional convention.

The men who sat in the constitutional convention, said Mr. Hanson, were better students of government than our men of today. The constitution is the product of the combined intellect and wisdom of Washington, Franklin, Madison and a score of others. It was achieved not without controversy and bitter debate. The friends of a pure democracy and the adherents of a strongly centralized representative government were lined up against each other. Through the wisdom of the latter element came the document which laid the foundation of our government.

"The spirit which actuated those men, I believe, still controls the conscience of the American people. It was until our day, however, that any body of men made up to organize the constitution. We hear the fallacy preached that the voters own the government and that it is within their power to do with it as they please. The constitution, which was the result of the case, as the sounder judgment of this country will affirm. This government is not owned, but is held in trust. It was so considered by the men of the constitutional convention and it is our duty to hand over government and our American institutions intact to succeeding generations.

"We hear the charge made that we have outlived our government. It is like saying that we have outgrown Christianity, and the ten commandments. It is still as potent as ever because the underlying principle of government is that of law which binds alike on those who govern and the governed."

Greatness Due to Industry. Mr. Hanson summed up the life of Franklin as that of a man who ministered instead of being ministered to. It was a life of service in which was perfectly practiced the common virtues in the words industry and work. The habit of persistent, intelligent work was the result of his industry. With less than eight months of schooling, he finally became recognized by the universities in England and America. His life is an inspiration for us to rise from the great common people to fame and everlasting renown through his own high-minded efforts.

Mr. Hanson's address occupied something over an hour and was intensely interesting. He has been a keen student of the great Franklin and his treatise is a studied and constructive piece of work. The bar association, upon the motion of Mr. G. Jeffris and with Mr. Hanson's consent, voted to have it published in pamphlet form for distribution among the members of the association and the guests of last evening.

At the outset of his remarks Mr. Hanson referred to one phase of railroad regulation as it is being practiced in several states. He made this reference, he explained, because the committee had asked him to speak on some phase of railroad activity, but he intended to do so only in passing. Mr. Hanson criticized the supervision of the issuance of railroad stocks and bonds by the state governments of corporations organized outside of the state. The function of supervision should be exercised, he claimed, only by that state in which the railroad corporation is incorporated. Under guise of regulation he declared several states had exacted exorbitant sums from railroads, which was nothing more or less than graft. In the case of the St. Paul road, a Wisconsin corporation, the regulation of stocks and bonds should come only from this state. As far as Wisconsin supervision was concerned, it was without effect, acting upon fees. In Illinois and Missouri, which have copied the features of the Wisconsin law, the situation is different. Since January of 1914, Illinois has exacted over $1,000,000, a large part of whose bond issues were expended outside the state.

Following Mr. Hanson's address, Judge Grimm, the toastmaster, called upon Chief Justice Winslow of the state supreme court, one of the guests of the evening. Chief Justice Winslow, who had been asked to make an appeal to the lawyers of the state to win back the high standard of the bar and to that end he urged all lawyers to make an effort to attend the state bar meeting this year at Oshkosh. The lawyers can help, he declared, to get the people back to the fundamental considerations of law and of life.

Justice Vinje, who was called for, made a brief address. "No government in the form of a democracy," he declared, "can hope to survive unless there is deep respect for fundamental law of the land which protects us not only against the minority but also against the majority, from ourselves. What may be a change in our fundamental law, may not always be wise in the end, and the safeguards of our constitutions, both federal and state, are calculated to prevent hasty and abrupt action. We have constitutional guarantees of protection in time of social stress and other times which are entirely adequate. If a change is necessary, it will come and will come."

McGovern Has Message. Former Governor F. E. McGovern of Milwaukee, who was one of the guests present, declared that the example of Franklin could be applied with equal force to the state. If by the exercise of personal virtues Franklin and men of his kind are able to accomplish great good for humanity, the state, the most powerful agency of righteousness can exercise that power for the uplift of mankind and the establishment of social justice.

"It is that ideal which we have been striving for in Wisconsin," McGovern declared. "If there has been injustice and exploitation, then it is the duty of the citizen to correct it. It is for us to decide, as it was at the birth of the nation's founding whether we shall favor a strong central government, full of wisdom and virile administration for the benefit of all the citizens, or the contrary."

McGovern pointed to the accomplishments of Germany, where government has intervened actively and persistently in behalf of the laboring classes. As the result of Germany's espousal of the cause of social and economic justice, pauperism and poverty have been abolished and the comfort and well-being of the common people is assured. The result was that all Germans rallied to the standard when war was declared. It proved a great preparedness. McGovern contended, and he contrasted it with the policy of England, where there had accumulated a few large fortunes and a mass of poverty which had turned to drink and crime.

Other Speakers Heard From. Among other speakers heard from was John M. Whitehead, who proposed that the lawyers of Rock county extend an invitation to the bar association to hold its annual meeting in 1917 in Janesville. His proposal met with the approval of the attorneys and plans will be made to invite the state association to this city.

Remarks were also made by H. H. Field of Chicago, C. H. Van Alstine, Milwaukee; Henry J. Killian, Milwaukee; and Charles E. Wagner, Chicago. Guests of the association from outside of Rock county were the following: Justices J. B. Winslow, A. J. Vinje and E. B. Robinson of the state supreme court; John E. Madison; James M. Clancy, Stoughton; H. H. Field, Charles E. Vroman and Burton Hanson, all of Chicago; C. H. Van Alstine, Henry J. Killian, Roger M. Trump and Francis E. McGovern, all of Milwaukee, and L. E. Gettle of Madison.

The banquet was a most excellent repast and what it was made more so was furnished by an orchestra of piano, mandolin and banjo. Judge Grimm was a most graceful and witty toastmaster.

At the business meeting of the bar association held in the afternoon, the following officers were re-elected: John Cunningham, president; M. O. Monon, vice president; W. H. Grubb of Edgerton, secretary; P. N. Dougherty, treasurer.

SELECTED SECRETARY OF COMMERCIAL CLUB P. V. Kuhn of Chicago to Come to Janesville to Take Charge of the Work—Other Business Transacted.

P. V. Kuhn, at present employed in the tariff department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad at Chicago, was on Monday afternoon chosen secretary of the Janesville Commercial club by the executive committee following the regular Monday night meeting of the directors.

Mr. Kuhn comes to Janesville well recommended by several sources known to Janesville men. He was present at the noon meeting of the directors and presented his application in person. He will move to Janesville April 1 to take charge of the work.

W. H. Dougherty has information in hand regarding the location of a branch to a large factory and is doing his utmost to interest them in the Janesville situation. It is possible to make the arrangement, it would mean finally a large addition to the manufacturing interests of the city.

Sam says:

"One day a pal o' mine handed me his package of NIGGER HAIR Long Cut an' I loaded my old pipe and smoked up on it.

"Pretty soon I began to notice how slow-burnin' an' cool-smokin' it was—richer, sweeter and mel-lower than any other tobacco I ever smoked. All long, silky strands of good, clean tobacco.

"From that day NIGGER HAIR has been my brand, 'cause it's real Long Cut and gives me real satisfaction."

hits the spot in a grown-up man because it's made of ripe, mild Kentucky Burley—aged and blended to give it rich fragrance for an all-day-long, year-round pipe-smoke.

Our grandfathers smoked NIGGER HAIR—they gave the brand its name, because of its long, curly cut.

Build around ideal heating!

A frequent sign of the times is to see the radiators and boiler delivered on the lot before the cellar is dug. Every one knows at a glance that a desirable, comfortable building is going up. It is the sign guaranteeing to the neighborhood and home-seekers, that the building is to be modern, instead of starting as old-fashioned. It notifies all that the new building is to have the biggest convenience and economy found in any building—the genuine coal saving, guaranteed, permanent heating outfit of

"Select radiator heating first and build around it. Makes the house a HOME!"

AMERICAN & IDEAL
RADIATORS & BOILERS

This ideal heating outfit is the only building equipment that stays worth all you pay for it, and in fifty years of use repeatedly repays its original cost through fuel savings. Can you possibly invest money better or more safely than this?

IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators supply the heat that costs the least because they make every pound of fuel yield the full volume of heat. They silently and steadily meet the sudden weather changes, warming all rooms, bays and halls genially alike. They protect the family health with cleanly warmth—no ash-dust, soot, or coal gases reach the living rooms—which saves much wear on furnishings and decorations.

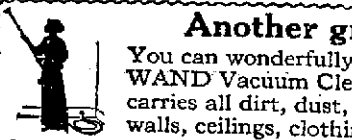

A No. 4121 IDEAL Boiler and 420 sq. ft. of 38-AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $190 were used to heat this house. The price the goods can be bought of any reputable competent fitter. This did not include costs of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which vary according to climatic and other conditions.

They are absolutely safe. They have every improvement—designed by many experts in our factories in America and abroad. They bring quicker buyer or tenant for your building, or secure a larger loan. You always get back the full price paid for them. They cost less or no more than ordinary types, yet are fully guaranteed.

Get the heat that costs the least!

Write us for "Ideal Heating" catalog (free). Puts you under no obligation. Now is the time to buy.

Another great labor saver—stationary Vacuum Cleaner, at $150

WEATHER FORECAST.

Partly cloudy and colder tonight; Wednesday fair and a continued cold; fresh to strong northwest winds, diminishing Wednesday.

WHY VERDUN?

Why Verdun? Can it be that the name is one to conjure with, the counterpart of Metz—one of the yet forgotten glories of German history? Is it that, in spite of German censorship, the news of Erzerum is rising above the officially limited horizon of the sublimely patient and patriotic German people? Are there undiscovered political and dynamic advantages for the expenditure of lives at this historic point, which at this moment transcend any possible military advantage?

Why Verdun? It was the strongest point, and probably still is, in the French line. An attempt, less spectacular but more successful, might obviously have been made to the northwest of that fortress, with the establishment of a strong German army on the southern bank of the Meuse. Then why Verdun?

And why also does the British censor permit the most favorable German cables to pass, while Paris is so remarkably tranquil? Are the allies unconcerned about the spectacular side of the German offensive, and under no illusions as to its military value? When two great financial interests clash the experienced reporter knows that the real news is to be had from the side doing the least talking. Some months ago Marshal Joffre expressed the opinion that the war was likely to be settled by the expenditure of a million German lives on French soil. Allowing for the French tendency to epigram, there is that in the German attack upon Verdun which gives point to the French soldier's prophecy.

THE HABIT OF THRIFT.

The American Bankers' association is pursuing a very vigorous campaign in behalf of thrift and is sending much printed matter on the subject for newspaper use. It is good stuff. It would be an interesting question to discuss, as to how far the thrift spirit in this country is growing or declining.

Certainly there are not as many small economies as formerly. People do not haggle over cents much now. Formerly if people paid a copper too much in making change, the majority of them would go back after it. Now they laugh and let it go. In settling bills people feel rather shamed at getting down to small coins. They pay even money, a few cents too much, and then call it near enough.

And people are not as strenuous about small savings as they were. They are more fearful of slight effort. They may know that they could buy groceries cheaper if everyone would call and get their parcels, pay cash, and carry them home. But stores often find it hard to get started on this basis, so slow are people to put themselves out for small savings.

For people with handsome incomes small savings may not pay for the bother. The man who spends fifteen minutes waiting around for a package of meat at 10 cents reduction, could perhaps put in his valuable time to better advantage. But his case is exceptional.

In spite of unthrifty habits, it still remains true that savings are increasing. But whether they are increasing in proportion to population and to living costs would be an open question. The interest on a bank deposit of $1,000 would not go much farther today than the return on $500 thirty years ago, particularly when you consider that interest rates were higher then. It still remains true that "many a little makes a mickle."

A BLUFF OR NOT?

In June, 1914, President Wilson protested to Carranza against the latter's special tax on Mexican mining properties owned by foreigners, a tax which amounted to confiscation. In September, Carranza refused to modify the tax. On December 28, 1914, Secretary Lansing made a vigorous protest to Carranza, pointing out that the law was highly unjust and insisting that this government would not recognize it as constituting a lien on property owned by Americans. This protest he caused the American consul at San Luis Potosi to hand to Carranza in person. It brought the reply that when Luis Cabrera returned to Mexico the confiscatory tax would be further considered. On the 10th of last month Consul Slightam reported that the tax had been reconsidered and that Carranza refused to modify it. It now remains to be seen whether President Wilson will make good his declaration that the tax will not be recognized as a lien on the property of Americans, or whether he will back down as he has done every time. He has made an unqualified demand on Carranza and Carranza has snapped his fingers in Mr. Wilson's face.

Some one asks what has become of the people who could formerly be entertained for hours by asking and answering conundrums. Well, they are too eager to go out much now, and their children, not eating Welch rabbits, less fatigued to their overstrained intellects.

Someone suggests that the heroic British forces in Flanders should make an attack of their own while the Germans are busy, but it has taken all their time and energy to read the newspapers about the Verdun fighting.

The battle will be only half won when the primaries are over. The next thing at issue will be the selection of the best two of the candidates named at the primary for the councilman's job at the April election.

The United States does not want war, but it will probably be some time before our citizens ask permission of foreign governments before venturing to go out in rowboats.

The enlistments for the army would come in a little faster if the soldiers weren't expected to take so large a part of their pay in the form of glory.

All that is necessary to obviate the objection of the men to spring house-cleaning is for their wives to take up and put down the carpets.

The Carranza dollars are worth only four cents, but at the prices of labor in Mexico, there is a profit in printing them even at that.

The Daily Novelette

Return of the Great Detective. When Chris Columbus lowered sail upon his first voyage to the Indies, I guess his first act was to mail a picture post card back.

"Have a seat, Mr. Viskits. Oh, not at all—I know your name is Viskits because you sent your card in," said the great detective.

"Marvelous!" breathed the short, thick-set man who had just come in by the door. "Well, I'll get right down to business. I don't want to waste time on a three-days' convention of the Retail Hack Drivers' association, and my home was gone from its accustomed place. There was nothing there but a dancing academy above a vacant lot."

The great detective, seemingly astounded for once, stroked his chin with his hand. At last his face brightened.

"Are you in favor of military preparedness?" he asked.

"Most emphatically not!" replied his visitor angrily.

"Ah-ha!" exclaimed the great detective. "My suspicion is verified. You are not in your right mind."

And he yawned and rose to 'phone for the bugaboo wagon.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

Mother's Pumpkin Pie. Some folks prefer the fancy grub they serve at swell cafes, and cooking by a foreign chef is really quite the craze.

The bill of fare, in fancy French, they like to take in hand, and to demonstrate that they can make the water understand.

They order up a high-toned meal that may be very fine.

But when it comes to eating good, I want an old-fashioned home meal.

I like the good old-fashioned meal, not like the kind you buy.

It ends up with a great big slice of mother's pumpkin pie.

They talk about the joys of wealth and how to live in style. But I am glad that I must live the old way for a while.

There's no dyspepsia in the house when mother's on the job.

No indigestion, dizzy spells or gout a-rising hob.

The meals are always served just right in winter, spring and fall.

I like the whole year's bill of fare, but one thing best of all—

When I am through with earthly things and take my place on high.

It won't seem just like heaven without mother's pumpkin pie.

Our Beauty Hints. Cynthia—Removing wrinkles from the face is really a cinch. It isn't necessary to wear a mask, although you can do this if you can't help it. Improve your looks to any great extent. The simple way is to grasp the skin firmly an inch or two northeast of the wrinkle and pull it taut where the wrinkle was and iron with a hot flatiron for several minutes.

The method is the same as that used by tailors in pressing trousers. When the wrinkle appears again the operation should be repeated.

Lulu—We hardly know what to say to you, Lulu. If nature has placed a wart upon your nose, nature probably knew what she was doing, and you had better leave it alone. The only sure way that we know of to remove a wart on the nose so that it will not come back is to hold the nose under a dried beef cutter. Or, if you consider your nose a valuable asset to your personal appearance, this treatment would be rather expensive and drastic, but if you don't care much about your nose, try it.

The Codfish. With plunage fair to see; He is a true and conscientious friend And makes a hit with the lingers round the grocery store. His odor is immense. To meet him once is but to feel his presence decades hence. He is a stranger in the land. His home is far away. Amid the ocean's breaking waves And headland's foamy spray. He's not only an ornament. But has a mission here. He is a constant friend in need. When other grub is dear. How often, in the frosty yore, Have we hied to the corner store, And in a whisper soft, Requested to be shown our friend And clasp him to our breast, And force him to go home with us.

GET TRACTOR PLANT PROPERTY TRANSFER ON WEDNESDAY, PLAN

Committee Will Complete Purchase Wednesday—To Have All Money Banked by Tomorrow Night.

Tomorrow will witness the closing of the deal for the purchase of the site for the new Janesville Tractor company. This was the assurance today given the Janesville public by committees from the Builders' Exchange, behind the move to create an industrial park on the corner of Bowler City and place Janesville on the map of the industrial world to a degree or degree greater than it enjoys at the present time.

In addition to the transferring of the property at the eastern end of Western avenue, the finance committee is to make a clean sweep of all money subscribed and not secured, and by tomorrow night have every cent of the pledged money banked and ready for building purposes.

It is requested of those who have not yet paid their money to either mail it by check or leave it at the Bank Douglas hardware store on South River street some time tomorrow. The finance committee is to be at work tomorrow and will call on a few business men previously missed.

Members of the Exchange conversant with spring building operations are confident that the construction can be started. In some places in the city the ground is still frozen to a depth of three feet, making excavation both costly and laborious. The business, cut down by the winter minimum it has already been decided to postpone the start of the factory until weather conditions are more favorable. When this state of affairs does come, the builders say, the new plant will rise in mushroom growth. Already a schedule has been determined upon to secure the most efficient speed in erecting operations, with the great amount of free labor and the ready and true hand offered by contractors, of every line and description, of the city to co-operate and make the building a success through material and equipment given gratis.

More laborers can be used to advantage and it has again been requested by the committee that it be announced that all willing to donate a few hours or a few days' time will kindly leave their names at the office of either Ford, Boos and Schoof, W. R. Hayes or at Joseph V. Jennings. A telephone call will serve the same end as a personal visit.

It is already agreed that the free labor to be reckoned at the rate of twenty-five cents per hour, or $4.00 per day. Itemized accounts of the total cost of the building, when it is finally erected, local contractors think are going to show some mighty interesting figures and will prove a good incentive to other projects of like nature, not only in Janesville alone, but throughout the entire country, by self-sufficient communities and cities ever ready to boost their home town and advertise it to the nation at large.

Let the children earn some extra money by bringing in old spring clothes, free from buttons and hooks, to the Gazette.

The Monday club held their annual Gentlemen's evening last evening at the Methodist church parlors and the Library club room. A four course dinner was served in the church parlors by the ladies auxiliary. The Methodist church at 6:30. The evening after which the remainder of the evening was spent in an entertainment.

The program consisted of stereopticon slides of the different countries of interest in the different countries of South America. Following these views the ladies of the club attired themselves in their costumes such as the women of the South America, women wear and demonstrated the ways and costumes of the South American people. The entertainment was instructive and gave a better idea of the people and customs of our neighboring land. There were about sixty-five members and friends present.

The members of the Culture club met at the invitation of Mrs. S. L. Emery and sister Miss Anna Hoen at the domestic room of the high school last evening. After a five-course dinner was served by Mrs. Emery announced a fine program which was as follows: Original poem by Mrs. J. Henderson on "Preparedness." Next Mrs. H. Towne gave a poem on the Ford peace ship which set forth many new ideas. The poems were greatly enjoyed by the club. Mrs. Ethel Robinson Grubb then gave three readings as follows: "No," "A Little Bit of Heaven," and "Young America."

She was assisted in the last selection by Mrs. J. A. Jensen on the piano. The regular meeting was then called to order by the president, Mrs. T. A. Clarke. The study for the evening was the play by George Middleton called, "Nowadays," and was led by Mrs. George Doty. The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. P. N. Grubb next Monday afternoon at 3 p. m.

TWO REPORTS ARE FILED FOR THE CITY COMMISSION

Reports were filed by Miss Elizabeth Joyce, visiting nurse, and George W. Slightam, plumbing inspector, with City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund, to be submitted to the city council at their meeting this afternoon. The report of the visiting nurse showed that 180 calls were made in February and that during that time forty-four old cases and twelve new cases were attended to. Fifteen home calls were made on school children, fifteen patients were dismissed as improved and forty-one patients were dismissed as improved.

Fifteen inspections were made by Slightam during February and the fees amounted to seven dollars.

K. I. A. CLUB ENTERTAINS GIRL FRIENDS AND BOYS IN PARTY LAST EVENING

Members of the K. I. A. club last night at Terpsichorean hall were hostesses to a pretty pre-Lenten leap year party. Each club member invited a girl friend who in turn asked her Adam. Altogether twenty-eight couples were present. Miss Marion Weirick and Carl Kellor furnished a delightful program of snappy music, each with several short encores which found much favor. The club girls decorated the hall extensively with pennants, blooming rose bushes, and other flowers and in each corner a home-like cozy-corner with wicker furniture and pillows added to the effect. Sherbet, lady-fingers and cake were served at midnight. Dancing was in order until two o'clock. A number of Beloit couples were in attendance.

JANESVILLE PAYS HOMAGE TO HI

"BEST FOR BABIES" J. P. M. C. SANITARY MILK

THIS MILK IS FROM HEALTHY COWS AND WILL RAISE HEALTHY CHILDREN.

Drawn from clean cows and strained into clean utensils by clean men it is bottled at our station in sterilized bottles.

It will pay you to raise your children on it.

Drink it yourself—you will find it delicious.

Our Certified Milk has the endorsement of every doctor in Janesville.

Milk is one of the cheapest foods for the whole family. The solid nutrients in milk are greater than in many vegetables and other foods.

The allied armies have found milk the most effective nourishment and stimulant which they use before battle.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME . . .

Copyright 1915 by Frank H. Spearman.

Spike tried to pull together his disordered wits. He felt in his pockets for his money and his ticket. Every pocket was empty. He then walked back to the station to go to Vegas away. The train, after changing engines, was ready to pull out. A passenger brakeman, saying Spike as he ambled up, asked his destination.

"I'm going west," declared Spike confusedly.

"Turn around," suggested the brakeman unsympathetically.

"Don't get fresh," growled Spike. "Where's your ticket?" demanded the trainman roughly.

"Lost it," returned Spike, laconically.

The conductor, accompanied by a special agent, came along. Hearing the talk, he asked the trouble. The special agent, listening one moment and sizing up Spike's appearance, pulled him forward by the collar and declared if he ever caught him on the right of way again he would stick him on a cork for thirty days. Spike was inconspicuously hustled off the platform and the company detective got aboard satisfied.

A moment later the train drew out. But Spike, watching his chance and making a run, had boarded the end of a car and hidden under the vestibule trap, which was down.

Awailing further opportunity, he watched until the conductor passed through the corridor into the next coach. Then, opening the door, Spike elbowed inside and seated himself without explanation or apology very comfortably in the observation coach.

His daring move did not, however, escape the conductor's vigilance, and coming back presently to demand a ticket, the train guardian was disagreeably surprised to find that he again had the impudent tramp on his hands. He once more summoned the special agent and a wrangle ensued. Spike declared the brakeman must have robbed him during the night of his ticket and what money he had. This assertion naturally failed of a sympathetic reception, and as the train slowed on the desert for Helen's station, Spike was firmly escorted by three men through the door of the coach. Helen, when the train stopped, was at the express car signaling for the registered package containing Rhineland's right-of-way contracts. She took also the Christmas mail addressed to the camp.

Returning to the office, she saw the disturbance at the steps of the observation car, where Spike, vehemently protesting, was again about to be hustled off the right of way. Helen reached the group at the very crisis, for Spike's surliness, enhanced by his condition, had made him an ugly customer to handle. The special agent, in point of fact, was about to knock him down and drag him out when Helen intervened to ask mercy for his condition.

"Where does he want to go?" asked Helen quickly of the conductor.

When he answered, "Up the road," and the circumstances were explained to her, she made a plea: "Let him stay on," she urged. "I will pay his fare to Balld."

Spike stared at the turn affairs had taken. Things were getting too complicated when Helen Holmes could come to his rescue. He thought he was dreaming until the special agent jerked him away from Helen and told Spike in vigorous English some of the things he thought of him and his kind. Spike could in conscience do no other than grin. But he realized who had intervened to save him from a beating and he continued to feel mixed sensations of surprise and confusion in perceiving that his rescuer should be Helen Holmes.

The conductor signaled the cab. The special agent climbed aboard and the train pulled out. When Helen turned to go back into the station, Spike, who had declined to board the train, stood near the door. He intercepted and tried to speak to Helen. But Helen was almost as much afraid of his gratitude as she was of his enmity, and tried to make light of her action and pass on.

But Spike was serious and not to be shaken off. For the first time, as far as he could recall, in his life someone persistently injured by him had offered, with none but a kindly motive, to do him a good turn. "If I ever get a chance, miss, I'll pay you back. Stop a minute, won't you? Just a minute." Helen reluctantly paused. "You don't think I mean it," muttered Spike. "I do. Thank you for your kindness." He shamefacedly held out his grimy hand. "Will you shake?"

Helen shrank back, but as he stopped respectfully toward her she hated to hurt his feelings. She gave him her hand for an instant and hurried, laughing, into the office.

Rounding the corner of the station, Spike ran into the station baggage-rum. "What town is this, mister?" he demanded.

"Vegas," answered the railroad man shortly. A feeble grin overspread Spike's battered features.

Seagruie had brought to the desert with him from his camp two regues whose names had gradually been reduced by bad spelling and hard knocks to "Bill" and "Lug." The pair were in his room with him when he asked whether Spike had come on the passenger train.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

OF DAISY DEAN

It seems altogether likely that De Wolf Hopper, Jr., is the youngest motion picture actor now at work. At the age of ten months he is taking part in "Sunshine Dad," a comedy, which his famous papa has the leading role.

Hopper, Jr., had something on his mind the first day he went to work in the studios. He didn't show a trace of camera fright. Father Hopper had suffered from a serious attack when he first faced the lens. But later young Hopper fell down terribly in his part and was nearly losing his job. He seemed to fail to realize that he was acting in a sparkling comedy, and played his role as though he were a tragedian. Both the Hoppers will be seen under full comedy steam in "Sunshine Dad."

THEBA BARA WARNS AMBITIOUS GIRLS

Theda Bara, the vampire, has issued a warning to all screen-struck girls.

"If the average girl only knew the sacrifices necessary to attain success in the pictures she would carefully consider before selecting screen acting as her life's work," says Miss Bara. "The demands made on the time of the motion picture actress are greater than those made on the time of the woman engaged in the pursuit of any other art."

"If one really feels that she has historic talent of a high order and she is willing to labor indefatigably, it may be worth enough for her to enter photography. If, however, she aspires merely to reveal her own personality on the screen, it is best that she remain where she is. Friends who probably will appreciate her more than the average motion picture audience."

CALIFORNIA TOWN SEVERELY SHOCKED

The little town of Rio Vista, Cal., was severely shocked the other day when Willard Mack and his bride, Mary Ruby, led their wedding procession into the principal saloon of the town. It developed that that was the place where the scenes in the new picture "The Princess" were being made, but even in an equal suffrage

The William Addison Lathrop story on which Van Dyke Brooke has been engaged, is rapidly nearing completion. It will be a three-part feature, whose principal characters will be enacted by Mr. Brooke, Leah Baird, Templer Saxe and Harry Fisher.

R. A. Walsh, who directed the production "The Seventh Year," is now in California, where he has started work on a new picture, is twenty-six years old. He is the youngest expert director in photoplay.

GREAT EFFECTS IN "OLOHA OE"

Willard Mack scores in Fine Role as Detelict in Drama of South Seas at the Princess.

As a lawyer fallen to a drellict and then raised to an idyllic life among flower-adorned and musical South Sea islands, Willard Mack starred in a Triangle feature, "Oloha Oe," shown yesterday at the Princess. With Mack was associated with Enid Markey, who made a beautiful daughter of the chief of the South Seas. The production is a sensation drama of love and adventure starting with the turmoil of a great trial and continuing through the lawyer's exciting events on the island of the South Seas. The hurricane at sea and the eruption of Mount Pele proved to be spectacular scenes and a great piece of photographic art.

Raymond Hitchcock is always enjoyed and his appearance with Roscoe Arbuckle in the Keystone farce, "The Village Scandal," was no exception, for it showed him and Fatty in many laughable encounters and mishaps.

Both pictures will be shown again this evening at the Princess.

Amusements

(Notices furnished by the theatres.)

AT THE APOLLO.

Marguerite Clarke Tonight in "Helene of the North."

Though it is only necessary to state that Marguerite Clarke, whose list of amazing screen triumphs continues to grow, is to appear again in former production of the Famous Players Film company at the Apollo theatre tonight, to crowd that beautiful photoplay theatre to capacity, it will undoubtedly be of added interest to explain that this magnetic star's return appearance on the screen is further distinguished by the fact that the subject selected for her return engagement is one of the most novel and unusual romances ever presented to the motion picture public.

This new subject on the Paramount program is entitled "Helene of the North," and tells in a graphic and original manner of the vicissitudes in the life of a young and captivating girl, the daughter of a titled English woman, who through a misguided fancy weds a notorious character of the Northwestern Canadian woods.

AT THE APOLLO.

Marguerite Clark in "Mice and Men."

What Marguerite Clark lacks in stature she more than makes up for in charm and ability. The little Famous Players star has given many inimitable characterizations to the motion picture screen since her debut of the stage, among the more recent of which are "Helene of the North," and the dual title roles of "The Prince and the Pauper," in which she proved that she could make a sturdy little boy when the occasion demanded, as well as a thoroughly exquisite delightful little girl of all ages, for the presentation of which she has become famous.

Now Miss Clark has added to her accomplishments the role of Peggy in the adaptation of Madeleine Lette Ryley's celebrated play, "Mice and Men," which is the Paramount picture at the Apollo tomorrow afternoon and evening. In addition to the laughable Ray animated cartoons. A children's matinee will be given at 4:15 o'clock.

AT THE PRINCESS.

Lillian Gish Stars in "Lily and Rose."

There are some intensely tragic moments in the new Triangle play, "The Lily and the Rose," which will come to the Princess theatre tomorrow and Thursday. However, this intensity is enthralling and is saved from being speculative by a lightening of the perspective in the end. Lillian Gish stars as the Lily, and her portrayal is convincing as the young pure souled girl brought up apart from the rude hurly burly world. Wilfred Lucas is the husband who has been a man about town prior to his marriage and who becomes tired of matrimonial bonds and seeks solace in the exciting society of a daring stage dancer, Rozsika Dolly.

Miss Gish is effective in displaying the gradual maturing of the young girl into a woman who sees the intense passion that drives her husband to neglect her and fix his attention on the shallow natured dancer. She becomes gradually reconciled to her role of discarded wife when her baby comes, and she lavishes upon it all the affection that otherwise her husband might have claimed.

"Temptation" gives Geraldine Farrar less opportunity for acting than did "Carmen," and yet she was sufficiently vivid and animated to please the packed audience at the Apollo last night.

Miss Farrar stands out from her screen background with the stereoscopic quality of personality. She is a fine dramatic figure. She is alive and she is free. As while she has no tremendous primitive role, she is still very satisfying and attractive.

"Temptation" is an original story written for Miss Farrar by Hector Turnbull with a few well-chosen situations, but it is so well devised that one does not know how it is going to work out, and when the solution comes, with the responsibility all nicely placed on one like Gish, it is a breath of relief as the lady silently steals away in safety.

"Putting It Over," a Farce Comedy, Starts Popular Stock Company in Week's Stand at Myers.

Guy Hickman headed a very capable cast of players in the opening engagement of the Hickman-Bessey company at the Myers theatre last night. Hickman, by his own splendid acting, stimulated vim into the rendition of the other character parts and he placed much credit for the success of the first show upon his associates as well as himself.

ONLY CONNIE KNOWS WHAT KIND OF A TEAM ATHLETICS WILL HAVE

Mack Has Done Little Talking About
Pennant Chances - Unknowns
Starting For Training Today.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Philadelphia, March 7.—What kind of a ball team Connie Mack will develop this season is a question no human being can answer as the Athletics start their spring training today. Mack is doing little talking these days except to refer to his promise of last year that he would make the Athletics another powerful overmatch winning team. The team started south today.

All last season, when the Athletics were trampled upon, kicked and nailed by every team in the American league and during the winter, Connie Mack spread a dragnet over all the minor leagues and colleges for material and formulated plans for his new machine.

Nobody knows how many unknowns Connie has under cover, but if his past constructive performances may be taken as harbingers it is safe to predict the Athletics will find a few trophies higher than the cellar.

With the "masked marvels" listed as an unknown quantity it would appear that the Athletics are prepared in all departments except pitching and third base.

If training camp coaching has the proper effect the Athletics' moundmen will be greatly improved over those of 1915. Weycroft, Joe Bush and Crossley are feared as anchor men. Last season Weycroft improved amazingly and around him it is believed Mack will build his staff. The Athletics' pitcher, who toward the end of last season demonstrated that they were rapidly getting their stride.

Connie Mack's plan of the game is expected to be handled by Walt Schang and McVey. Young Perkins can also be counted upon to do a little catching. This boy, according to the team manager, is a corner. Those who saw him work in the North Carolina league feel certain this season will develop him greatly.

Mack is said practically to have decided that Jimmie Walsh will be the regular left fielder, with Oldring in center and Spunk in right. Davies, however, is still in left field and it would not cause great surprise if he were called upon to play in that position.

Oldring as a result of his "redemption" is in great shape. Rube Scott's vacation on his farm and appears to be quite capable of playing in his 1915 and 1914 style.

The infield problem probably will cause Mack a few headaches. Third base still is a great uncertainty and although will require a whole lot of consideration. Although several reports are being tried out for the latter position it is possible Crane will be selected.

Hooley and Ritter are being mentioned for third. In Ritter, Mack considers he has a future star and looks for remarkable work from the younger. Rube Scott is expected to be seen at first as usual and Malone probably will see service at second in place of Rube Scott. (Rumors are circulating that Larry will be seen with another team).

AD WOLGAST COULD NOT LAND THE KAYO

Champion Freddie Welsh Outslugs Ex-Champion in Fast Bout in Milwaukee.

Freddie Welsh, world's lightweight champion, fought Ad Wolgast, ex-slugging dual in Milwaukee last night and at the end of the fierce milling Welsh had a clean decision over the challenger to regain his lost title. Welsh fought Wolgast at his own game and surprised the immense crowd present when he did not attempt defensive boxing and, but traded punches with the powerful Ad in close quarters, never wavering from the body punishment inflicted by Wolgast.

The first six rounds were about even. Wolgast possibly won a shade in two of the rounds. Wolgast fought as hard as he could, and staged a rally in the fourth and fifth rounds that gave him an edge. He could not keep up the pace, however, and from the seventh to the tenth Welsh was the master. The German fighter was too tired to hurt the champion in the last three rounds, while Welsh peppered him with straight punches.

A number of boxing fans from here attended the mill and were well pleased with the exhibition, the main light being interesting. In the "prelims" Hal Clark was defeated on points by Frankie Carsey in six rounds. Two other six round bouts went the limit.

Richie Mitchell of Milwaukee today deposited a check for $2,500 for a match with Champion Welsh for a match over any distance, the money to go to the winner. Ad Wolgast also offered to post money for a twenty round bout with the champion.

Parker's married men nearly copped the game from the single bowlers last night at the Miller alleys, but they lost by about forty-five pins. Clathworthy rolled the high score in the match knocking down 208 pins. Scriven's barbers went away with the honors in the match game with the clothing clerks by a margin of only 12 pins.

JANESVILLE FANS PLAN BIG BOWLING TOURNEY MARCH 15

Janesville Bowling Association Plans
Big Tournament Starting
Week of March 15.

On March 15, Janesville will open her first annual bowling tournament. From all present indications it will be a monster. Dr. Richards, who is managing the meet, has mailed out slugging dual in a radius of three hundred miles. Beloit, Rockford, Madison, Watertown, and cities of that size will send large delegations.

The business men are responding nobly to the request to support this meet, and are entering teams of their employees to show the bowlers of neighboring cities that Janesville is ready and willing to support a good game and that they will go the limit to back a movement started in Janesville. This spirit is a great help to those who are endeavoring to make this meet a whirlwind success the first time out.

Bowling as an exercise and a sport has increased by leaps and bounds in popularity all over the country this winter. Janesville has its share of good bowlers, and stands ready to show visitors how it will support the game.

The management requests that all who have not as yet entered, to hurry with their entries as the open dates are being taken rapidly.

Let's all get back of this tournament and make it a bowling success.

BRONCHITIS OF SPECIAL INTEREST IN MARCH
March is the time when acute bronchitis flourishes, and in some localities it constitutes one-tenth to one-seventh of all illness. Bronchial coughs are distressing and persistent and if not cured are apt to become chronic. R. F. Hall, Verdi, Va., in treating his case of bronchitis, writes: "I was afflicted with a troublesome bronchial cough and irritation of the throat. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound relieved me immediately, as after taking one bottle the cough ceased and has never returned." W. R. Shorer.

INFANT SON OF JAPANESE
EMPEROR "VISITS" PARENTS
IN A POMPOUS CEREMONY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Tokio, March 7.—Prince Sumi, the infant son of the Emperor, who was born last December, paid his first visit to his imperial parent yesterday.

Mrs. Berg took an auto ride with the Fursetts to Janesville last Saturday.

A solemn ceremony was held before the imperial shrines. The service was Shintoist and was similar to those performed during the consecration of the Emperor at Kioto in November. Subsequently the child, his dress being changed, was borne into the apartments of his father. He was embraced by the Mikado who showed great pleasure that his boy had grown so big and healthy looking and who proceeded to ask many questions of the visit the Emperor made the prince a present of fresh fish. This is in fulfillment of the Japanese customs of offering food gifts both to the living and to the spirits of the dead.

Mr. Went-And-Cut-It
--Here's Mr. 'Gets-It'

The New Plan Corn Cure That's as Sure as the Rising Sun.

"Glad to meet you" says the razor to the corn. "Will bleed for you" says the corn to the razor. Razors and corns love each other. Corns love to be cut, picked,

"Why, O Why, Did I Do It? Gets-It' for Me After This—It I Live!"
pouged, salved, plastered and jerked out—they grow faster. And Mrs. Went-And-Cut-It realize it now—they use simple corn-cure that never fails. Stay at home. You apply it in 2 seconds. It dries at once, the corn is doomed. Nothing to do to the stocking or press on the corn. It means good-night to plasters, salves, dippers, razors and toe-clippers. You can reach another plane. Your corns will come right off. "Goes" as a whole. Some inflame healthy flesh. The world's biggest selling corn cure.
Is sold by druggists everywhere. 25c a bottle, or sent direct by F. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. Sold in Janesville and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Red Cross Pharmacy, Red Cross Pharmacy and McKee & Buss.

Milwaukee Man Finds Quick Way to Escape Misery of Digestive Troubles.

William A. Ernst of 1184 Richards street, Milwaukee, was a victim of stomach disorders which made him miserable most of the time. He was often unable to work and he suffered severely.

Mr. Ernst finally took Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and was surprised at the quick results. He wrote:
"Your medicine has relieved me of about three hundred accretions and I have not passed any more since taking the last dose. I have not lost an hour of work since. I have recommended your wonderful remedy to several of my friends and will recommend it to all who suffer as I did."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more diet and whatever you eat, pressure of gas in the stomach, and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee. If not satisfactory money will be returned.

Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy is Home-Made

Easily Prepared in a Few Minutes. Cheap but Unequaled

Some people are constantly annoyed from one year's end to the other with a persistent cough, which is wholly unnecessary. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make you wonder what became of it. Get 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. This cough is a cough that you never thought would cure. It is also loquacious, dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflammation in a painful cough with remarkable rapidity. Ordinary coughs are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, winter coughs and bronchial asthma.
Pinex and Sugar Syrup mixture makes a full pint—enough to last a family a long time—at a cost of only 54 cents. Keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant. Easily prepared. Full directions with Pinex.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in quinine, and is famous throughout the world for its ease, certainty and promptness in overcoming bad coughs, chest and throat colds.
Get the genuine. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Home A NOVEL

By GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

Copyright by The Century Co.

Gerry did not answer. His face became a mask. It seemed to him that only Alan's eyes were alive, and to Alan that Gerry had projected his spirit to his bedside to watch him die. Alan tried to smile in defiance. "Can't you speak?" he whispered hoarsely.

Gerry leaped forward. The question he had to ask was stronger than he. It forced its way through his lips. "Alan, what did you do with her? Tell me that and I'll go away."

A troubled look came into Alan's thin face. He frowned. "Do with her? Do with whom?"

"Alan," said Gerry, his suppressed voice trembling. "You know. With Alice."

"Oh," said Alan, still struggling on the verge of consciousness. "I remember. I did nothing with her. She wouldn't go with me."

"Alan," groaned Gerry. "I saw you. I saw you and Alice on the train." The frown was gone from Alan's forehead. He felt sleep coming back to him and he was glad. "Yes," he said, "she was on the train with me. I remember. She jumped off. A baggage-man—caught her." He dropped off to sleep again.

Lieber stopped outside across the floor. He caught Gerry by one ear, and with the other hand over his mouth led him out of the room. Gerry went faintly. When they were on the veranda Lieber looked at him. "So," he said, his blue eyes blazing, "you only want to kill him."

"No," said Gerry, dazed, "not now."

"Mr. Lansing," said Lieber, "you got out of here. We'll settle this business some other time."

Gerry's lip trembled. "You're right, Lieber," he said. "You're right, only you don't know it all. That chap in there—we were boys together. He ran away with my wife. That's why—"

Gerry suddenly stopped. Alice had not run away. She had jumped off the train. Where was she, then? What had she done through the years he had been away? Why had she jumped off the train. He struck his hand to his head and stumbled off the veranda.

Lieber's anger died in him, but he turned and went back to Alan.

Two hours later he came out again to find Gerry crouched on the veranda. The spirit had gone out of him, but he turned on Lieber with a determination in his tired eyes. "You told me to get out and I haven't. There are things I've got to know. I'll wait."

"I spoke in haste, Mr. Lansing," said Lieber. "I want you should forgive me. You are all in, too. Come with me."

He led him into his own room, made him lie down, and closed the shutters. Gerry threw himself across the bed, arms outstretched, face down. Lieber slipped out and noiselessly shut the door. Gerry lay exhausted. He could not think any more. A great weight lay on his brain. The ten minutes' dose in the chair at Alan's bedside had not been rest, but a nightmare. Presently he fell into sleep, a deep sleep that was all unconsciousness.

It was almost night when he awoke and with the awakening the weight settled back on his brain, only now he had the strength to think in spite of it. He got up and went out in search of Lieber. Lieber heard him and came out into the hall. Gerry nodded towards Alan's room. "It's all right, Mr. Lansing. He must have a solid mind. Your talk didn't excite him—didn't even disturb his sleep. He's on the road up—weak, a baby, but he's started life again. He's asked for you twice. Seems to have something he's got to get off his chest to you. You'd better go in."

Gerry sat down once more beside Alan. The questions he must ask crowded to his lips, but he forced them back. He tested his strength with resolutions and held them. It was his way of reassuring himself. He wanted to feel his firmness rising in him to meet the struggle he felt must come when Alan spoke.

Alan knew he was there. He saw him through half-closed eyes, but more than that he felt him. His brows puckered in a frown. It was still hard to use words. "Gerry, last Pazenda Flores since Gerry's advent and of the great part the ditch had played in bringing resurrection to the abandoned plantation and life to the neighboring stock.

"Dangerous business," he said, "fooling with the normal level in flood country."

Lieber nodded and went on. He told his tale well. He had seen more than Gerry could have put into words. Gerry listened for a while, but he soon wearied. What had all that to do with him now? He wandered off and started to saddle True Blue. He must get away from Alan. Alan was drawing him, but he was bound in chains. He must remember that. Then, too, what Alan had said about fooling with the normal level worried him. He must go back and station a guard at the great sluice gate.

A sudden puff of air, then a breeze, then a gale, swept down on Lieber's from the southwest. The wind was hot, a furnace blast from the torrid wilderness. It carried with it whisks of dust, light, dry sticks, and, finally, small pebbles that hurtled along the ground. Gerry and his horse sought shelter by the house. Herders came running out from their quarters and gathered in front of the veranda. The wind suddenly turned cold, dropped and ceased. The dust settled. The sun blazed as before. There was not a cloud in the sky. The herders all looked at Lieber. They did not talk. They were waiting.

Lieber shrugged his shoulders. "Somewhere," he said with a wave of his hand to the southwest, "there has been rain and hail and that sort of night I wanted to tell you more only I couldn't. I had to sleep. Alice didn't go with me. She only came to the train. When I kissed her she woke up and found she wasn't—cannot after all. She went back home. You didn't turn up. You never turned up. They traced you to a river, an empty canoe—pyjamas—you know." He stopped and sighed as though his task were over.

The veins on Gerry's forehead stood out in knots. His chin rested on his clenched hands, his elbows on his knees. "Alan," he said, "where is Alice now? What has she done?" Alan opened his eyes and looked at him. "She is waiting. She has always waited for you to come back. She would not believe you were dead, because of the boy."

"The boy?" groaned Gerry. "What boy?"

"Yours," said Alan. "He is a great boy. There is a new Alice since he came. She is as far from me and what she was as the stars. She is a steady star. But it's all right now. You'll go back to her."

"I can't," whispered Gerry hoarsely, more to himself than to Alan. "I've got a wife here. I've got a child here. To me he is my first-born."

Alan's eyes opened, this time in wonder. A twisted smile came to his lips. "You," he said, "you!" and then the smile changed to a faint disgust. He turned his head on the pillow away from Gerry and slept.

The next morning found Gerry still at Lieber's. Outside the heavenly bowl of blue was virgin of clouds. It stretched and domed in a spheroid eternity of emptiness. Through its depressing void the sun swam slowly, pitilessly, as though it were loath to mark the passing minutes. The whole earth baked. Strong trees wilted and turned up the wrong edges of their leaves on the sea of heat like dying fish turning up their white bellies at the last gasp. Not a breath of air stirred. Heat rose from the ground in an unbroken, visible wave. "My God," said Alan, gazing with wistful, far-seeing eyes beyond the familiar, repellent scene, "a homeward fever parches up my tongue!" There was such an agony of longing in the words that Gerry was frightened. He looked questioning at Lieber.

"No," said Lieber, "he's not dying. He was dying, but he's changed his mind. He's going to go home instead."

"I believe he's right, Gerry," said Alan with a faint smile. "But I didn't change my mind. He did it for me. He's in line for a life-saving medal. Lieber's all right." He stopped, tired out.

Lieber began to talk to Gerry. "How's the water in the ditch, Mr. Lansing?"

"Mighty low," said Gerry. He spoke almost absent-mindedly. For the first time in months the ditch was far from his thoughts.

"It's hard luck," said Lieber. "The river's never been so low before—not in the memory of man. We do not hear the falls any more. The river is asleep. Do you want me to send my men down again?"

"It's no use," said Gerry. "I don't dare deepen the ditch any more. It's way below the normal level now."

Alan stirred. "What's that about a ditch?"

In unheeded phrases and a low voice Lieber told him the history of last one of them grunted. His eyes were fixed on a distant pillar of dust. It came towards them. Lieber used his field glasses. Without taking them from his eyes, he spoke. "It's a man, riding. Looks like he's riding for life. Something is up. He's riding to kill his horse."

As the man approached, a dull rumbling filled the ears of the watchers. So gradual was its crescendo that they did not notice it. The rider spurred and beat his horse to a final effort. They could see he was shouting. He drew nearer, and they heard him, "Flood! Flood!" Then they noticed the rumbling. It became a roar. Far away on the horizon rose a white, advancing mist. The rider rolled off his staggering horse. "The flood," he gasped. "Never before has there been such a flood."

Before the words were out of his mouth there was a frenzied rattle of hoofs and Gerry on True Blue tore off at a mad gallop down the trail towards Fazenda Flores. Almost at his heels followed the first mounted of the herders, riding all they knew to cut across to Piranhas ahead of the wall of water.

Lieber's eyes followed Gerry's flight. Then he turned to Alan. "That hollow down there," he said, "will be turned into a rushing river in half an hour—perhaps less. We're just safe here, and that's all. You see Mr. Lansing? He's the spot farthest down the trail. I'm thinking we'll never see him again."

A faint flush came into Alan's cheeks. It was a flush of pride—pride in Gerry. Gerry had not hesitated. He had not ridden off like a laggard. Even now they could see that he was riding for life—riding with all his might for the lives that shackled him.

Bedouins and Water.

It is not unusual to hear a Bedouin upon reaching a camp where water is offered him refuse it with the remark, "I drank only yesterday." On the Bedouins' long marches across dry countries the size of the water skins is nicely calculated to just outlast the journey, and they rarely allow themselves to break the habit of abstemiousness, as this would be sure to make their next water fast all the harder. They are accustomed from infancy to regard water as precious and use it with religious economy.

Saved Her Life

The unqualified endorsement of Fruitola and Traxo in a recent letter from Mrs. S. Grindie, 5918 Mignette St., Pittsburg, Pa., will be of interest to other sufferers from stomach and intestinal troubles. Mrs. Grindie says:

"The doctors had given me up, saying the only hope left was an operation. I tried Fruitola and passed hundreds of gallstones with the first two bottles. Am now feeling better than I have for years past. I will be glad to tell any sufferer how it has helped me, for I owe my life to it."

Fruitola possesses properties that act directly upon the intestinal parts, softening the congested waste and disintegrating the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, and expels the accumulation to the great relief of the patient. Traxo is a tonic-alterative that acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices, to aid digestion and removes bile from the general circulation. It serves to build up the weakened, run-down system.

For the convenience of the public, arrangements have been made to supply Fruitola and Traxo through representative druggists. In Janesville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker's, 123 W. Milwaukee.

when she saw the bottle, "what did you buy that for? Don't you know it is very dangerous to give a child anything like that?"

"Don't worry," was her husband's reply. "I'm going to take it myself."

One afternoon the superintendent of a Sabbath school announced the hymn, "I want to be an Angel," and all those present enthusiastically joined in the singing except a little boy named Johnny Jones.

"What's the matter, Johnny?" kindly whispered the teacher. "Why don't you sing?"

"Because," was the rather startling rejoinder of Johnny, "I don't want to be an angel."

"You don't!" exclaimed the teacher, horrified. "Why not?"

"Ah, then angels have to play on harps," exclaimed Johnny, "and I have got all the trouble I want now learning to play the piano."

A traveler entered an inn where a Quaker sat by the fire. Lifting a pair of green spectacles and rubbing his eyes, which looked very inflamed, the newcomer, in one breath, called for some brandy and made a grievous

Dandruff Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

complaint about his eyes. "They are getting weaker and weaker," said he. "And now even the spectacles appear to do no good."

The Quaker looked first at him, and then at the brandy.

"I'll tell thee, friend, what I think," said he. "If thou wouldst wear thy spectacles over thy mouth for a few months thine eyes would get well

WOMAN'S PAGE

Marrying for Money

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

"You have not been at home a single evening since I came, except the night of the party and one Sunday for an hour or two. Must you go to the store this evening?" Adelaide looked at the clock. It was half past eight. Dudley had come for his hat after supper. Marian was waiting on her way to her room, where she spent the evening supposedly at her studies. She looked over the banister and listened for Dudley's answer.

"We are busier in the evening than any other time," said Jacob Townsend. "I'm off, Dudley. Going now?" said Jacob Townsend, closing the door.

Outside door, he had been sitting on the porch for his breath of fresh air and as the evening had a tang of frost in the air the door had been closed.

"Can't Dudley have an evening off?" asked Ortrude, coming into the hall. "He has not been at home since Adelaide has been here. It is a shame to work young people so hard. Besides we need him here. We are boring each other to death. Aren't we, Adelaide?" Ortrude looked archly at her young cousin.

"Oh, I never could! I might as well say ever bored anybody, but we would like an addition to our little society."

"Oh, we can get along for an evening if something special is going on," said Jacob kindly. Dudley was too much in the twilight to signal to him his desire to get away. Marian clutched her hat and rushed up to her room. She did not stay there.

"I believe I will ask Tupper to build a little blaze on the hearth. It would be cheerful and it is cold enough so we would not suffer with the heat," Ortrude was saying as she entered.

"I'll get the wood. Tupper is busy with the dishes," Dudley rose and left the room followed by Marian.

"Don't look so black, Pass. We must make the best of this and try to have a good time this evening," said the boy trying to dispel the gloom from the girl's face.

"Why did you stay?" flamed the girl.

"Oh, come, Marian, one can't be a bore. Join the group and try and forget your grouches. Dudley's tone was irritated."

"You wanted to stay and be with that black girl," finished the girl lamely, turning on her heel and going to the kitchen.

Dudley collected some light pine and returned to the parlor without another word.

When Marian sauntered in a little later Ortrude said: "Oh, are you going to favor us with your company this evening, Marian? We do not often have the pleasure. The girls were polite, but the tone said unmistakably that the increase in numbers was anything but welcome. Marian pretended not to hear and dropped into a seat by the fire where Dudley was working, happy in the thought that she was putting a spoke in the wheel of their plan at last. Dudley felt ashamed of her unbecoming and extended herself to make the evening go off pleasantly. But the gaiety was forced and all were glad when the evening was over. Ortrude said to Adelaide when they were alone:

"If that hateful little mix, Marian, had stayed away we should have had a good time. I wanted to box her ears."

Household Hints

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES.

For a Burned or Scalded Part.—Take white of one egg, rub over burn, then take a soft rag with olive oil and rub on. Will not leave a scar.

For Scalds and Burns.—This will not leave a scar if directions are followed: Wrap burn in thin cloth, keep soaking wet with good vinegar, and pain is soon gone. Do not allow cloth to be lifted for at least two hours. If a deep burn on hand or foot, hold in a basin of vinegar with cloth over burn to exclude air. Will not smart at all.

Nightmare in Children.—Never be cross with a child in a nightmare; it only makes matters worse. He seems to be asleep, but really he is in the intermediate stage, between sleeping and waking, when he understands what the phantoms of his dream. Try to cure nightmare by giving him a very light supper, plenty of ventilation in the bedroom and not letting him read or play before going to bed.

PANUCHO CANDY.—Four cups brown sugar, one cup milk, three cups English walnuts, one tablespoon vanilla. Boil sugar and milk thirty minutes, then stir in the chopped English walnuts and vanilla; pour into pans.

Floating Islands.—To one cup milk use one egg, two tablespoons cream, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla, speck of salt. Scald milk. Separate the white of the egg from the yolk. Add sugar to yolk, beat. Add salt to white, beat till stiff. Gradually add milk to beaten egg yolk. Return and cook over water till it thickens. Strain. Add vanilla. Do not cover with egg white. Serve cold, as dessert.

Frosted Cakes.—Two cups granulated sugar, one cup lard, one cup baking powder, one cup water (medium warm), one cup vanilla, one tablespoon ground cinnamon, one whole egg and yolks of four. Save whites for frosting. Enough flour to make soft dough. Make frosting as follows: Four cups sugar, one cup water in sugar and boil to a thick consistency. Pour the hot sugar over whites of eggs. Beat well, then cover cakes or cookies with frosting. Boil the frosting in two batches. The frosting is excellent, and if wrapped in oiled or waxed paper can be kept until the Fourth of July. Fine for schools and picnics, and if a few extras are kept, unexpected company never finds you without cake.

French Dressing.—Mix one salt-spoon pepper with one of salt; three tablespoons olive oil and one three tablespoon onion scraped fine; then add one cup vinegar. When well mixed, pour mixture over salad and stir all well mixed. Use chicken, fish salads, use mayonnaise dressing. For simple vegetable salads the French dressing is most appropriate.

Tried and True French Dressing.—One tablespoon olive oil, one-fourth teaspoon salt, half as much cayenne pepper. Mix well and pour over lettuce, pour off and add more oil and spices more of the oil and one tablespoon sharp vinegar. Mix well, pour over salad and serve. This is enough for six persons.

Chili Con Carne.—Take one large onion; cut in small pieces and fry in butter and lard. Add one pound ground beef, let brown, add two cups tomatoes, one kidney bean; stew about twenty minutes; add a half teaspoon chili powder, cook five minutes more. Salt and pepper to taste.

Mexican Chili Con Carne.—Boil one pound kidney beans until tender. Put two tablespoons drippings in skillet, stir in chili sauce, let brown, let simmer until thick. Then put in one pound ground beef and chili powder. Stir all in and let simmer. Season to taste with Mexican chili pepper.

Marshmallow Iceing.—One cup granulated sugar, half cup water; boil till beaten stiff, stir in white sugar is hot, beat until cool enough to spread.

Mahogany Cake.—Two cups sugar, two-thirds cup shortening, two-thirds cup water, dissolve together, two eggs, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda in milk, one teaspoon baking powder. Frosting: One and one-half cups powdered sugar and two tablespoons cocoa stirred together, but size hickorynut. It sometimes takes a little more coffee to get the right thickness to spread.

RAISIN AND NUT SANDWICHES.—Take mayonnaise or firmly whipped sweet cream, thicker with powdered sugar or chopped nut meats and seedless raisins. Made with tea biscuits or finger rolls, they are very nice and require no butter.

ITALIAN ANTIQUES ARE BEING EXPORTED TO U. S.

Rome, March 7.—Italian antiques are being exported to the United States in unprecedented quantities, according to United States Consul William F. Kelly. During the past year the export of such items amounted to the value of $234,616, as compared to $169,170 in 1914, and $141,441 in 1913. The reason being that antiques have generally become a drug on the European markets as against the new souvenirs and curiosities created by the present war.

It seems to be a general opinion that after the war antiques will be more in value and interest. This, however, is a mistaken view, according to the Rev. Walter L. Lowrie, rector of the American church in Rome, who is a well known antiquarian. "In no sense," he says, "will the gigantic operations of this war swamp or submerge interest in the past. The war has its origin in the historical ambitions of the individuals and nations of Europe. We can explain its aspects only by going back into history, and the very largeness of this war makes these relics more important."

The Servant Problem—who ever heard of it in the home where the housewife knows Shredded Wheat? In five minutes you can prepare a wholesome, satisfying meal with Shredded Wheat Biscuit without kitchen worry or work. For breakfast heat the Biscuit in the oven to restore crispness and serve with hot milk. For lunch serve with sliced bananas or other fruits. Made at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

WOMEN WORKING FOR UNCLE SAM ARE BEHIND "BABY WEEK"

Women of U. S. children's bureau who are behind Baby Week. Left to right, standing: Dr. Grace L. Meggs and Mrs. Max West. Seated: Mrs. Etta R. Goodwin and Miss Julia C. Lathrop.

Uncle Sam is growing more and more to see the importance of protecting his babies and elaborate plans have been laid by the government for the nation's first "Baby Week," March 4 to 11. For some years through the federal children's bureau, a special study has been made of the needs of babies. The women who have led in this work and who are behind "Baby Week" are: Miss Julia C. Lathrop, head of the children's bureau; Mrs. Max West, editor of "The Care of Children," a pamphlet issued by the bureau; Dr. Grace L. Meggs, in charge of children's hygiene, and Mrs. Etta R. Goodwin, who is co-operating with the Federation of Women's Clubs.

DO YOU KNOW HER?

"I don't like her," said the Womans-to-be cynic.

"Why not?" said the Lady-who-always-knows-somebody.

"She's one of those women who use their sex and pretend all the time to be unconscious of it."

"How do you know?" inquired Molly, the little stenographer lady.

"Well, if you want to be perfectly frank, she is the kind of woman who leads you on to take little familiarities with her, and then, when you draw back and acts insulted and says, 'Unhand me, villain,' or words to that effect."

"How do you know?" inquired Molly.

"Sounds as if I knew from experience, doesn't it? And I do, not with her, but in times past, with her type. I can feel it with her."

"Do you think you have any right to judge a woman by anything so indefinite and vague as a feeling?"

"Haven't I heard you say several times that some man or other gave you an uncomfortable feeling? Why shouldn't a man have a feeling about women?"

"It doesn't seem quite—"

"No, perhaps it isn't quite—and I wouldn't say it to everybody—but between ourselves like this is different. Besides, well—to tell the truth my feeling was corroborated. It wasn't my experience—it happened to one of the other men who comes more into contact with her."

"She accepted her invitation."

"She used to bring up against him when she brought his letters to him and when he asked her to show him the touch method on the typewriter, she let her hands touch his more than she let her lips touch his."

"Saturday afternoon, when she offered to stay and do some work for him, and they were alone and she was standing close to him looking up in his face, the way she does sometimes—well, I guess he accepted the invitation and kissed her. And then such a row as there was! She cried and pretended to be insulted. When he told her that she had led him on, she was more up in the air than ever. Of course there wasn't anything he could say to her, but he knew she had been deliberately leading him on. He apologized, but he hasn't any use for her, and I can't say that I blame him."

"The Woman Tempted Me," Says Molly.

"Of course not," said Molly. "The woman tempted me, you know."

"What do you think about it, Lady?" said the cynic to the Lady-who-always-knows-somebody.

"Don't you think, perhaps," said the Lady, "that even if she did lead him on, she may have been partly unconscious of what he was doing?"

"I think, dear lady," said the cynic, "that if anyone could persuade me to take that point of view, it would be yourself."

THE MASQUERADER

Contrary to the popular notion, every graduate of a medical school who obtains a license to practice his profession is legally and educationally a specialist. There is no special course of training required by law in order to practice surgery. The general medical school course fits a man for medical and surgical work. However, it is customary to spend some additional time post-graduate work if the physician wishes to establish himself in surgery—customary, but by no means essential. Now it is unfortunate for the public that the view prevails that because a man can operate, he necessarily knows more about the diagnosis and treatment of disease than another man who does not operate. We say unfortunate for this reason: There are surgeons and near-surgeons. Surgeons fully realize their own shortcomings in diagnosis and therapeutics. (Treatment. Near-surgeons eagerly avail themselves of the people's credulity and attempt to play the role of all-around specialists, to assume a ponderous air of wisdom, and to operate on a patient's delight in being an "operation." The real surgeon, who realizes his limitations, seeks the help of the family physician, who has had exceptional opportunities to observe and study the patient, he summons to his aid the laboratory expert, the competent specialist in this or that limited field, the X-ray expert. He divides the responsibility with the family doctor or other consultants. If the verdict is operate, he operates. If the majority opinion overrides his own, he waits.

Your near-surgeon prefers not to be bothered by the family doctor who likes the patient to come without the family doctor's sanction or knowledge. He always operates, early and often. No matter whether the case is one legitimately in the field of the general surgeon or not, the near-surgeon operates if the patient wants an operation. The patient, somehow, always comes just at the nick of time—another hour, day, week or month would have been "too late." But then, the near-surgeon ought to know accurately, for instance, what is wrong with an appendix that looks fairly good to the novice. Hasn't he removed plenty of normal ones?
